INTRODUCTION

These Bylaws are designed to give proper balance to the administration of the Local Union.

Duties and responsibilities of elected officers and members of committees should be as widely dispersed as possible. It should not be left to the willing few to have to serve in multiple capacities. In other words, duties should be shared by the many rather than the few. While various committees have been designated as “Standing Committees,” this does not preclude the possibility of “Special Committees” being established from time-to-time as may be required and necessary in order to improve and maintain the social and economic welfare of its members without regard to ~~sex, colour, race or creed~~. It promotes efficiency in public employment and to give clear evidence of its recognition of the units of organized labour, this Local has been formed and does now establish these Bylaws for its government.

The following Bylaws are adopted by the Local pursuant to and to supplement Appendix “B” of the CUPE Constitution, to safeguard the rights of all members, to provide for responsible administration of the Local and to involve as many members as possible through the sharing of the duties and responsibilities.
